ANGEL OF DEATH CAUSES SORROW

OLIVER F. DAVIS PASSES TO THE GREAT BEYOND

At 5:45 o'clock last Saturday morning, April 17, Oliver Funk Davis passed peacefully away at the residence in Los Angeles, where he had been practically bedfast for several weeks. His devoted wife and his daughter, Mrs. Mary B. Krauch, and his son, Howard W. Davis, were present with him when the final call came. Another son, who was his partner in business, Ross R. Davis, was in Ocean Beach when the sad news of his father's demise was received and left early in the forenoon for Los Angeles, where funeral services were held last Monday afternoon. Interment took place at Forest Lawn cemetery, Glendale, Calif.

For almost a year past, Oliver F. Davis, who was familiarly called "Ollie" by his intimates, had been a sufferer from a serious organic trouble that caused a rapid failing in his health. Last Thanksgiving time he found it necessary to consult a specialist, who pronounced the disease as a malignant growth of the lungs and liver, with fatal results, yet he was hopeful and conscious to the very last.

The deceased would have reached his sixty-eighth year next month, having been born in Hopewell Township, Bedford County, Pennsylvania, May 24, 1858. Mr. Davis was engaged in the planing mill business at Everett, Bedford county, Penn., until the year of 1900, when he removed to Redlands, Calif., and entered into the amusement business, spending ten years on the road playing various cities and towns of California. In 1910 he removed to Los Angeles and resided at 918 Harvard boulevard, until 1918, when he placed the Caroussel at Ocean Beach, and had since been a highly respected member of the beach community, residing in a well-appointed home at 1821 Cable street. A beautiful floral offering contributed by Ocean Beach friends was forwarded to his funeral.

Mr. Davis was the last survivor of a family of eleven children, eight boys and three girls. His sister, Hetty M. Tobias, of Altoona, Penn., preceeded him in death, March 30, last, at the age of 79. Mr. Davis is survived by his wife, Mrs. Annie E. Davis, and three children, Mrs. E. W. Krauch, whose husband is golf editor of the Los Angeles Evening Herald; Howard W. Davis, who is sales manager for Union Lithograph company, Los Angeles, and Ross R. Davis, Los Angeles, who has been associated with his father in the amusement business for the past twenty-five years. The deceased was a life member of Masonic Lodge No. 524, of Everett, Penn., and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He was a great lover of children and possessed the happy faculty of endearing himself to his hosts of friends of all ages. The message of his demise caused expressions of deep regret throughout the beach community and the staff of "The Beach News" most sadly joins in the heartfelt condolences extended to the bereaved family.

Cohens And Kellys At Granada Theatre

LA JOLLA BOOKINGS EMBRACE ALL FEATURE FILMS FOR NEXT WEEK

There was a mighty lively and pleasing response by beach folks to the generous introductory offer on the part of the Granada theatre management in La Jolla last week. The excellent showing of high class feature attractions brought forth a wealth of praise from hosts of patrons who were also delightfully impressed with the fine accommodations of the beautiful new playhouse.

Beginning tomorrow (Sunday) night, as well as on Monday evening, "His Secretary" will be shown, with Norma Shearer and Lew Cody in the leading roles. There will also be topics, comedy and news films. On Tuesday and Wednesday nights Robert Frazer and Clara Bow will be seen in Gene Stratton Porter's masterpiece, "The Keeper of the Bees." Shakespere's 'Tempest' A Dramatic Epic Magnificent Presentation in the Greek Theatre, International Theosophical Headquarters, Point Loma.

Written for "The Beach News"
By H. D.

Shakespeare has never painted on a vaster canvas nor in a more gorgeous sunset-colors than he does in "The Tempest," which Katherine Tingley produced on a magnificent scale, April 16 and 17, in the Greek Theater on Point Loma. It was indeed an artistic triumph.

The cast is not confined to the human world, but includes the world of sprites and elementals—in fact, the elements themselves. For it is Prospero, the magician, who, after years of study, has learned to control the forces of nature and who summons the elements, when a ship carrying his enemies approaches his magic isle.

Hardly more substantial than the elements themselves are the elemental spirits who serve Prospero that justice may prevail in the world of men. Some of them—fairies, elves, nymphs, sprites—pictures of loveliness, are called forth to entertain the happy lovers. Others—grotesquely deformed — "strange shapes," as Shakespeare calls them—are used to mock and bewilder the conspirators, of whose crooked minds they seem

THRILLING ROLLER POLO AT M. B. SKATING RINK

ANOTHER TIE GAME BETWEEN THIRTIETH DIV. AND "BEACH NEWS" TEAMS

The second game of roller polo played at the Mission Beach Skating Rink last Tuesday night between the Thirtieth Division and "The Beach News" teams resulted in another tie, the score being 2 to 2. It was a battle royal from start to finish and there were no casualties except for a slight accident to Loyal Near of the O. B. bunch. In going mile-a-minute after the ball during a most exciting period of the game, he went slam bang against the wall, sustaining an abrasion of the cheek bone. Loyal says the game certainly was worth it.

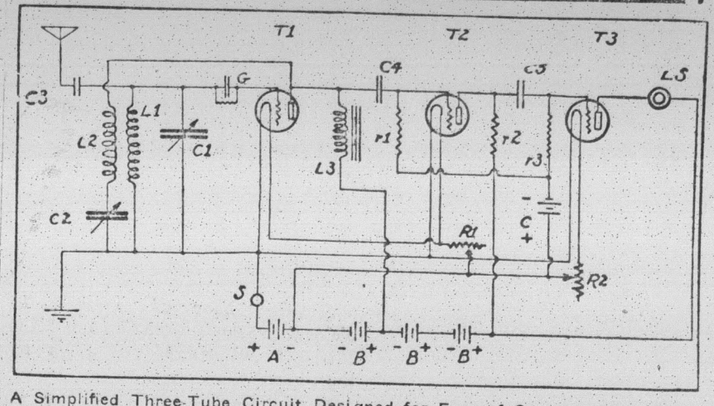
RADIO



A Simplified Three-Tube Circuit Designed for Ease of Construction, Operation and Superb Tonal Quality. Honeycomb Coils Used for Tuning.

By BRAINARD FOOTE

In Radio World.

Listeners who prefer moderate volume, combined with almost perfect reproduction, will be interested in the simple entertainment receiver to be described. The faithfulness of its tone output is dependent upon the system of audio frequency amplification, which, in this set, is a combination of a stage of impedance-coupled amplification and a stage of resistance-coupled amplification.

In addition, the use of the half-ampere power tube is considered in the last stage. Since this tube requires about 135 volts of "B" battery, the use of resistance coupling calls for no additional plate voltage. Impedance coupling is adopted for the first stage since this provides superior detector action and greater detector output. Moreover, with a good impedance coil for the first stage, the quality is good. A honeycomb system of tuning is shown, with a primary coil made unnecessary by the expedient of employing a small fixed condenser as the coupling medium. Thus the assembly of the outfit is not difficult. The output of volume is not so great as can be obtained by the use of more tubes and more audio amplification, but on this very account its tone qualities are better and its operation more pleasing.

Will Operate Loud Speaker.

A receiver of this character will operate a good loud speaker, either of the horn or cone type, to advantage.

In the symbolic diagram C3 is the coupling condenser whereby the energy picked up by the antenna is delivered to the set. L1 and C1 form the tuned circuit of the set, L1 being a 50-turn honeycomb coil and C1 a .0005 mfd. variable condenser. Regeneration is handled by the "shunt" plate circuit L2 and C2, L2 being another 50-turn coil and C2 another .0005 mfd. variable condenser. The two coils are mounted by means of two honeycomb coil mounts. They should be as far apart as possible, so long as sufficient regeneration is to be had on the longest waves.

G forms the combination grid and leak and condenser, a .00025 mfd. condenser and 2-megohm leak. T1 and T2 are two 01A type tubes, whereas T3 is a power tube of the 112 type, taking ½ ampere at 5 volts. L3 is the coupling impedance for the first stage. It may be a special impedance coil made for the purpose, or, with as good results, the secondary winding of a large-sized audio transformer. This stipulation is made to insure the use of an impedance coil having enough turns of wire and core iron to pass all the audio frequencies.

C4 is the coupling condenser for the first stage. A condenser as small as .002 mfd. will answer fairly well here, but better results are obtained both as to volume and range of musical tones if the condenser is made at .01 mfd. or even up to 0.5 mfd. A grid leak resistance r1 of 1 megohm or ½ megohm is required to properly bias the grid of tube T2 and to prevent it from becoming choked with negative impulses. Instead of the impedance just described, a coupling resistance is adopted for the second stage, since this is even better than an impedance when it comes to passing all the musical frequencies.

Power Stage.

Resistance r2 should be approximately 100,000 ohms (0.1 megohm). Such resistances can be purchased in the form of an ordinary grid leak and all the essential resistances may be snapped into regular resistance clip-holders. These holders, which come with the resistances r2, should be well made in order that the heating effect of the "B" battery current that must pass through it may not alter its resistance and cause noises or distortion. Condenser C5 is just like C4. The grid leak r3 should have a resistance of about ¼ megohm (250,000 ohms) to properly bias the last tube and prevent overloading or choking.

Tube T3 is a ½ ampere power tube, used because its greater power will result in somewhat greater volume of output and a very marked gain in tone quality, since overloading is eliminated. A jack is provided for the loud speaker connection, the loud speaker LS being indicated at this point.

Now for a few remarks about the battery and filament circuits. Rheostat R1 takes care of lighting the detector and first stage tubes T1 and T2, while rheostat R2 handles the power tube. A snap switch S, located at the left end of the panel, serves to turn the set on and off. Thus the rheostats may be maintained at the proper points permanently.

A 4½ volt "C" battery is employed, as indicated. Three 45-volt "B" units are required.

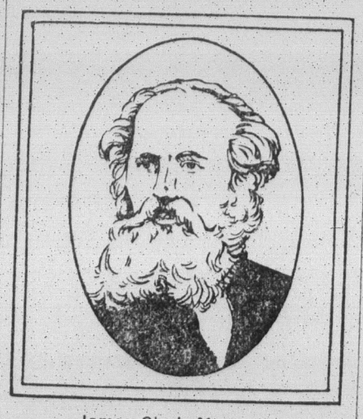
FOREFATHERS OF RADIO

By GEORGE LEWIS

of The Crosley Radio Corporation.

The beginnings of radio may be traced back to the scientific work of James Clerk Maxwell, the celebrated British physicist. Maxwell was born at Edinburgh, Scotland, and conducted his brilliant researches at a comparatively young age, dying at Cambridge, England, when but forty-eight years old.

He believed that light was due to waves in an invisible medium which scientists call "ether." He believed, further, that light was some kind of an electromagnetic phenomenon. It was these ideas of Maxwell's that led Hertz later to the discoveries that made radio possible.



James Clerk Maxwell.

If Maxwell were right in his assumption that light was both a wave motion and electromagnetic in nature, the scientists could expect any vibrating electric current to send out waves of some kind, just as a vibrating violin string sends out sound waves. Maxwell's work was first published in 1873, but it remained for Hertz to establish experimental proof of his theories some fifteen years later.

Maxwell is honored among physicists as the mathematical wizard of his times. His theoretical work is the basis upon which much of modern physical science rests. Especially is this true in the realm of electrical theory, where his work is constantly referred to as the great authority which has inspired modern ideas of electricity. Radio scientists have Maxwell to thank for first having opened the door to the developments that have led to the modern science and art of radio.

Hints on How to Adjust Your Regenerative Set

If the set accidentally breaks into oscillation, turn back the regeneration control at once.

Use both hands, one hand for the regeneration control and the other hand for the tuning control.

Practice on tuning powerful stations first and do not try to pick up weak, distant stations until becoming expert.

Do not force regeneration in an attempt to obtain loud-speaker volume from a set not designed for the purpose.

Never force regeneration in an attempt to hear stations beyond the range of the set; be content with those that can really be heard.

Keep the regeneration control always just below the point of oscillation; the set is then in the most sensitive condition. This is the reason for using two hands for tuning.

Do not try to find a station by the whistle. If the set is tuned just below the whistling point, the signals will come in clear and the regeneration control can then be tuned a little further to increase the volume.

One-Cent Lights Predicted

Electric lights so tiny that it would cost only a cent for current to keep them burning for an entire year are reported as possibilities by the Popular Science Monthly. The new lights were discussed at a recent meeting of the Illuminating Engineering society in Detroit.

HELP PREVENT ACCIDENTS

In our everyday activities each of us has a supreme conviction that nothing will happen to him; that if accidents happen they will always be to the other fellow. So Nature protects us from fear and constant worry.

It is not unwarranted interference with our freedom to have someone interested in looking out for our personal safety, knowing as we do our own inclination to neglect it. It is not paternalism to install safety devices. We need the help of others to protect ourselves.

"COME, COME, WE WANT YOU ALL TO COME"

Arthur Brisbane says in his famous "Today" column.

"Not to know this Pacific coast from end to end is not to know your own country. Come out here. If you ever go back it will be to gather up your assets and bring them back with you."

BUSY BUSYBODY

All reports to the contrary notwithstanding, it is stated that Mr. Buttinsky is still doing business at the old stand, and is ready to oppose any public improvement that may be started. Those who want his services should apply early, as he is very busy attending to everybody's affairs but his own, anywhere and everywhere throughout the community.

To Make It Spring

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE winds come winging from the sea,
The roses climb the garden gate.
Yes, all life's joys come back to me,
But one, but you—but you are late.
The world may sing me songs of spring,
And yet I cannot seem to sing—
Though roses climb the garden wall
I miss the dearest rose of all.

The birds come flying from the far,
Far land where always fines blow
But all my weary highways are Still buried by the wintry snow.
And there are deserts in my heart
Where not a green leaf seems to start,
And what care I for winds and birds,
Impatient with unspoken words?

The hills are greener with new grass,
And heaven bluer with new skies,
But what means that to lad or lass
On whom the chill of absence lies?
If April days would have me sing,
Then something more the month must bring
Than hills of green or skies of blue—
To make it spring must bring me You.

Charm Plays Important Part in Real Estate

In nothing outside of art does the intangible element known as charm play so important a part as in real estate. The home-buyer is usually a very undecided and bewildered sort of person. He has a vague idea of what he wants, but can't quite find it. He is shown dozens of houses for sale. The price counts within his range. That is, say he will pay from $6,000 to $8,000 for a five-room house. Inside of that range the one thing that counts most with him is not the cost of the house, but whether or not he wants it.

Now that is where charm comes it. If the outlook is pleasant, the house convenient, and it has some beauty that makes him want it—the sale is made on your terms. If he does not quite want it, the price must be cut five hundred or a thousand dollars, to make the cheapness overcome his reluctance.

It is surprising how few builders realize the great commercial value of beauty and good taste. I can take two houses exactly alike, side by side. The least expensive thing about a simple little house is tinting the walls. It costs perhaps, for five rooms, less than $75. I can tint the rooms in one of these houses a drab, depressing color; the other a bright, pleasant shade. The bright one will sell for $500 more than the other—and sell months sooner.

Almost the entire secret in investing in city property is: Select a location that is growing better, and buy something that has charm.—William H. Wamby, in Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan.

Not All Workers Want Homes Near Factory

There is no demand from modern workingmen to have their homes within sound of the factory's whistle and within sight of its smokestacks, according to the executives of the Home Builders' and Subdividers' division. And it is by no means necessary or advisable to preempt for workingmen's homes areas that because of trackage facilities or other reasons are going some day to be needed by the city for industrial sites.

"Where his wife's card club is located is a great deal more important to a foundryman or machinist than where his work happens to be," the home building specialists agree.

Action of the regional planning commission of Los Angeles is cited by the committee as a typical instance of a city's recognition of the advisability in some cases of giving an industrial use precedence over use for housing. The commission is now excluding homes from certain districts in the city, because trackage facilities there need to be conserved for future industrial development.

Cites Zoning Benefits

Zoning is reflected in reasonable phone rates, gas and electric prices and in street car fares, Chairman Marshall of the board of zoning appeals declared in a speech before the Baltimore real estate board.

Mr. Marshall explained that the number of houses in new developments and the price of their construction regulates the number of inhabitants and enables public service corporations to forecast in advance improvements they must supply in the section concerned.

"The ability of the public service corporations to give service without large emergency expenses will result in lower costs to the consumer," Mr. Marshall said. "We in Baltimore should be allowed to pass legislation that will protect the public from a small minority."

Good Work Encouraged

The committee on craftsmanship awards of the Philadelphia Building congress has awarded certificates to 12 guildsmen, 8 craftsmen and 7 builders and subcontractors.

The object of the Philadelphia Building congress is to encourage and preserve in Philadelphia and its metropolitan area the spirit of craftsmanship and to give recognition to those whose skill, patience and toil have built well in the community.

Advertise Home Town

"Every county in south Georgia," says the Tifton Gazette, "should have an advertising fund and spend it judiciously during the year 1926 to attract more farmers, manufacturers, investors and homeseekers to this section. We have the advantages, but must not wait for people to come here to find them out."

Who Owns the Homes?

Half the dwellings in the United States are owned by men whose income is less than $2,000 a year. These figures are based on research work by building and loan associations. They say few men are financially unable to buy a home.

Urge House Insulation

Build your house like a fireless cooker. Insulate it against heat and cold and you will have perfect year-round comfort.

The Hotel Stenographer

By Roe Fulkerson

"IT'S a good world after all," said the Hotel Stenographer, watching a gathering of society buds chatting in Peacock alley.

"It's been good to that bunch of chickens, all right," agreed the House Detective.

"Is that so?" drawled the girl. "Look 'em over, Kelly, look at the funny faces. Size up the camel-like figures. That bunch of girls represent the wealth and the society of this town. Is there a good looker in the lot? Is there a single girl in the group that any man on the street would look back at?

"Tonight, when you go off duty, stop at the employees' entrance of some big department store and cast your lamps over the girls who come out. If there are not twenty pippins in the bunch I will go without a marcel for a month.

"A peacock is the prettiest bird that ever wore feathers, but did you ever hear one scream? A mocking bird is the sweetest singer who ever warbled a note, but look at his dull gray coat. There is no getting away from it, Kelly, one can't have curly hair and everything else, too.

"These girls have diamonds and motors and money and social standing and faces that only a mother could love. The girls in the department store have a third-story hall room, one pair of silk stockings, and have to walk to work, but when it comes to looks, we working girls have those buck-toothed society debs licked to an everlasting farewell.

"Kelly, I am poor and not proud. But I wouldn't swap my Irish eyes and my face that never gave anyone a pain for all the money those birds have, and all their social standing. The guy who marries a girl who looks like that, looks at a girl who looks like me and sighs heavily. I would rather be the one he sighs for than the one he sighs over, even if I do have to darn them tonight and wear them again tomorrow. It's a good world, Kelly."

Among the NOTABLES

MARQUIS OF CONDORCET

JEAN ANTOINE, marquis of Condorcet, gave to history the peculiar story of an artistocrat who championed the cause of the common people against his own class during the French Revolution.

Jean Antoine was born September 17, 1743, in Picardy, of a family that had held to all the old aristocratic traditions. But in some way he was different from them. At first very studious, he made a name for himself by his labors in differential and integral calculus, then turned from science to become a fanatical reformer, a friend of Voltaire and Helvetius, and a busy member of the Jacobin club. He welcomed the Revolution as the dawn of a new era—as the modern social reformers welcomed, at the start, the disastrous Bolshevik movement. Condorcet even condoned the excesses of the revolutionists as the fleeting passion of the populace. Unfortunately, he fell a victim to the very passion he pardoned.

Robespierre in 1793 sent out a decree against him, and to satisfy his wife, he hid in a garret in an obscure part of Paris. For eight months he never stirred out; then, one sprite day, he was tempted by the green trees in a nearby park, and by hunger to venture forth. In a restaurant he ordered an omelet with a dozen eggs in it. This excited a lot of curiosity, he was questioned, searched, found to be an "aristocrat" and, in spite of his work for the Revolution, was thrown into prison by the mob. To avoid the guillotine, he poisoned himself

WOMEN FIGHT POWERFUL FOE

Struggle Against Ill Health

Find a Faithful Ally in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. ADOLPH HANSEN
HOLMQUIST, SOUTH DAKOTA

Holmquist, South Dakota.—"I can not begin to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was sick for about four years. I could not sleep, and I was always worrying, so one day we saw your advertisement in a paper, and I made up my mind to try the Vegetable Compound. I bought one bottle and did not see any change, so I got another bottle. At the second bottle I began to feel better and I have used the Vegetable Compound ever since, whenever I feel badly. I recommend it and I will answer any letters asking about it."—MRS. ADOLPH HANSEN, Holmquist, South Dakota.

Could Work Only Two Hours

Encanto, Calif.—"I bless the day I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was so weak and tired all the time I could not work more than two hours each day, then had to go to bed for the rest of the day. I read so much about the Vegetable Compound and I was so weak that I decided to try it. I now do my own housework—washing, scrubbing, and ironing—and then help my husband with his garden. I do not have that worn-out feeling now. I advise every woman to give your wonderful medicine a trial, and I will answer any letters I receive from women asking about it."—MRS. STELLA LAY, 700 Jamacha Road, Encanto, Calif.

A woman who is fighting for her health and her family's happiness is a valiant soldier. She wages her battle in her own kitchen. She has no thrilling bugles to cheer her on, no waving banners.

If you are fighting this battle, let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound be your ally, too.

Diver's Explorations

Depths greater than 200 feet have been reached by divers. Chief Gunner's Mate Frank Crilley, U. S. N., broke the record when he attained a record of 288 feet to locate the sunken submarine F-4 in Honolulu harbor. Thirty-five fathoms, equal to a pressure of about 100 pounds, is regarded as the average depth for divers of experience and good physique.

Seek to Rout Pneumonia

Physicians are now studying diligently new serums by which it is hoped to reduce the pneumonia death rate considerably. It is estimated by conservative medical statisticians that in the United States annually 140,000 persons die directly and indirectly from the disease. Heart disease continues, however, to be the principal cause of death.

AN ABBREVIATED STORY

ESSENTIA OILS

ESSENTIA OILS stepped gracefully from her 23-cylinder flivver and entered the recruiting office. With the immediate, unerring instinct of the real American girl, she stopped at the desk marked: "Apply Here."

"Are you Mr. Here?" inquired Essentia Oils.

"Mr. Which?" said the man behind the desk.

"Mr. Apply Here—I noticed the name on the desk," explained Essentia.

"Oh, I see. No, he's at the other end of the building this morning, assisting Mr. Entrance Out. My name is Burford Seeds, and if there's anything in the line of anything I can do for you—"

"I want to be a nurse," said Miss Oils.

"Splendid! Splendid! You can take a four-months' course at the school for nurses, and then, if you pass the examinations—"

"That's too slow," interrupted Essentia. "I want to be a nurse right away."

"That's the spirit we like to see," approved Burford Seeds warmly. "And if you have any special qualifications—"

"I've got it all figured out," explained Essentia chippily. "In the first place, I'm just naturally suited to be a nurse. I'm simply bubbling over with life and animation, and if I do my imitations of George M. Cohan and Harry Lauder for the sick soldiers it ought to do them no end of good. And then I'm generally conceded to be the best dancer in our set, and I'll consider it part of my duties to dance with all the convalescents and take their minds off their illness. I'm naturally an early riser, and if necessary I can sign a contract to begin my imitations each morning not later than ten-thirty."

Burford Seeds clasped the desk to keep from falling under it.

"Well—we'll send for you when we need you," he gasped ginnishly.

"Now or never!" said Essentia, and swept haughtily out and drove to Mrs. Upson-Downs' bandage-winding headquarters, where she made it a point to wind two bandages every day.

WHO SAID

"Let us not lay down our arms until we have gained independence."

FOLLOWING the battle of Lexington, fought between the American Continental troops and the red coats of England, the followers of the Colonial cause gathered in Miner's tavern, not a great distance away, to talk over the first conflict of the war which was to mean independence and immortality, or defeat and the stigma of "rebel" attached to their names.

Among those who led this mass meeting was a young man, but twenty years of age, a valued member of the Continental forces, who was fated to rise to a captaincy under Gen. George Washington and to die on a British scaffold only a little more than a year later. That man was Nathan Hale, a patriot of the highest type and a man whose immortal declaration just before he was led out to die, "My only regret is that I have but one life to give for my country," has made his name familiar to every school boy.

Nathan Hale, at this meeting in Miner's tavern, was one of the fiery speakers to keep faith with those who had died in the first engagement and he begged to "not lay down our arms until we have gained independence!"

Nathan Hale was a prominent figure in those early days of the Revolution. He enjoyed the confidence of General Washington and the other leaders and when some important information was desired concerning the British troops about New York it was Nathan Hale who was entrusted with the perilous mission. He was detected and on September 22, 1776, executed under the most brutal circumstances, being denied a minister, or a Bible, and the privilege of sending letters to his mother and fiancee.—Wayne D. McMurray.

Mother's Cook Book

The fundamental importance of carefulness and the fundamental disaster of carelessness are seen from the fact that carefulness really stands for truth, and carelessness means untruthfulness—none the less untruthful because unconsciously so.—S. S. Times.

EVERYDAY DISHES

AS VEGETABLES are the essential food to feed the family, a variety should be available at all times, if possible.

Fillets of Veal.

Divide a loin steak into as many portions as will be needed; pound and season each piece with salt and pepper and a bit of sage. Roll and fasten with wooden toothpicks. Roll each fillet in crumbs, then in egg and crumbs again, salt and repeat the egg and crumbs. Run a sharp wire skewer through the fillets and suspend them over a dripping pan in a hot oven. Baste often with chicken fat or butter. Cook until a delicate brown and serve garnished with parsley.

Marshmallow Peaches.

Arrange halves of peaches on a dessert dish. Whip cream and sweeten, flavoring with a little almond. Place a spoonful of the whipped cream in the cavity of the peach with a fresh marshmallow on top. Serve with cookies or cake. A dish of nuts and raisins will serve as dessert on a busy day and will satisfy the family as well as saving the cook.

Spanish Chops.

Gash French chops to the bone and fill with the following stuffing: Six tablespoonfuls of bread crumbs, three tablespoonfuls of minced boiled ham, two tablespoonfuls of mushrooms and two tablespoonfuls of butter. Roll in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat until well browned.

DRESS FOR DAYTIME AFFAIRS; SPRING MODES IN HEADWEAR

FABRICS may come and fabrics may go, but the faithful crepes, both heavy and sheer, stay on forever—for which blessing all fashionable womankind rejoices. Of course, it is entirely superfluous to go into any detailed recital of the good points of crepe materials. Sufficient unto the moment, is it, to know that crepe fabrics are more popular than they ever were.

Whatever lack may be in novelty of material is made up in the way of unique styling. One of the interesting features of this season's modes is that the one-piece dress is given a two-piece appearance. Viewing the handsome flat crepe dress, which is shown in the picture, from the front, one would think that it consists of a blouse worn over a circular skirt. However, the illusion is dispelled when one sees that the back portion is cut in one piece. Other of its style details are the long sleeve, self-fabric tie and the braiding which patterns the hem-edge of the camouflaged blouse. There is an air of tailored elegance about this frock, even though a touch of elaboration is suggested in the braiding.

If one's taste inclines to a more ornate styling, the plaid-trimmed crepe frock is the very latest word from Paris. Solid colored crepe frocks, especially navy or black ones, are enlivened with a piping of gay plaid on all available edges. A plaid necktie and plaid furbelows at the wrists add to this animated coloring.

Another very important embellishment for the monotone crepe frock is accessory touches of gilded-leather brilliantly illuminated with bronze-paint colorings or batik dyes. Nearly always a fanciful belt accompanies a collar and cuff set of the leather.

In frocks of crepe which show the stylish bolero treatment, bright color is achieved through the waist portion which is attached to the skirt.

Another very prominent feature in the styling of the crepe frock is the necktie and various floating streamers of self-fabric which are often the sole items of adornment on the coat or dress.

While the North is still buffeted by biting winds, the South is basking in summer sunshine, and between the coast of Maine and that of Florida any sort of climate may be found. This accounts for the diversity in the millinery styles now on display in the centers of fashion and, incidentally, reveals that Miami and Palm Beach are pointing the way for summer fashions.

Small hats of grosgrain silk, of straw, or of straw and silk combined appear to be crowding out the little felt hat which has had such a lasting vogue. Although the felt, in light colors, looks summery, it is never a cool hat. The new straws and silks are less plain and more dignified than the vanishing felts—their crowns are higher, their brims are varied.

Three typical shapes shown in the picture are all combinations of straw and silk. The group leads off with a pretty beret—the most graceful of the brimless shapes. It has a crown of silk with a trimming of two-toned velvet ribbon twisted about it. The beret is the inspiration for many draped hats of grosgrain ribbon. Straw and taffeta are united in the youthful hat at the left with moderately high straw crown and upturned flaring brim of taffeta adorned with rows of narrow braid. The same braid-adorned taffeta makes the cluster of rosettes at the right side. A midsummer hat finishes the group—the beloved and perennial leghorn with puffed crown of crepe georgette. One can imagine it in any of the lovely pastel colors with pastel roses and foliage posed at each side.

Hats for Spring.

ADEQUATE STORAGE FACILITIES FOR HOME

Compact, Orderly Arrangement in Clothes Closet.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It is easier to keep a house in order if it is equipped with adequate storage facilities. "A place for everything and everything in its place" is a good old adage, which if heeded, saves time and strength. Less time is wasted looking for misplaced articles if similar ones are stored together, and if the contents of boxes, drawers and closets are suitably labeled or listed. Things that have outlived their usefulness should not be stored, even if there is ample space, for they simply add to the material that must be cared for without giving any service in return.

Such household storage places as attics, basements, cellars and sheds do not, of course, need to be so carefully or frequently put in order as the living rooms, but they should be gone over often enough to keep their contents in good condition and to prevent dirt from being carried from them into the other parts of the house.

The cellar or basement may be damp, and therefore requires special care, both because things stored in it may spoil, and because the quality of the air in it affects that all over the house. It should be regularly ventilated, preferably with a cross current of air, and open windows and doors should be screened against insects, and in some cases against dirt. Unplastered walls should be whitewashed occasionally. In most cases the boxes or shelves in which things are stored should not be set directly on the floor, but raised on racks or blocks of wood to avoid dampness and mustiness. Old newspapers, magazines and paper boxes should not be stored here because they tend to absorb moisture.

Compact orderly arrangement in a clothes closet makes cleaning easier. Dresses, coats and like garments may be kept on hangers on a rod across the closet, and shoes may be kept on a shelf near the floor of the closet. The clothes closet should be aired each day; leaving the door open every night is a good plan. Occasionally everything stored in the closet should be taken out, and floors, walls and shelves thoroughly cleaned. Dusty closets are likely to harbor moths.

RYE BREAD MADE AT HOME IS GOOD

Favored by Many for Making Various Sandwiches.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Are the various members of the family tired of the sandwiches they carry for lunch to school or office? Sometimes a change in the flavor of the bread is a welcome relief to the monotony of one sort of sandwich. Why not try rye bread sandwiches once in a while? Rye bread is not difficult to make at home. Some flavors blend with it in sandwich form better than others, especially Swiss and other cheeses, nut filling, salad filling, including lettuce with mayonnaise dressing, and perhaps cucumbers, olives or pickles, in addition, and the various smoked meats, such as ham, bacon, frankfurters, tongue and bologna.

Rye ranks next to wheat as a bread grain, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, because it contains similar proteins. In fact, rye flour is practically the only other kind that can be used successfully alone in yeast breads, but in this country rye bread made with part wheat is preferred because it is lighter than bread made with rye flour alone.

The recipe below for rye and wheat bread makes two loaves:

Rye and Wheat Bread.

2 cupfuls liquid	1½ teaspoonfuls salt
½ cake yeast	About 3 cupfuls rye flour
1 tablespoonful sugar	3 cupfuls sifted wheat flour
2 tablespoonfuls fat

Make a sponge by mixing the wheat flour, the liquid, the yeast and the sugar. If the sponge is to rise overnight, add the sugar with rye flour. For a quick sponge the temperature should be the same as for dough (80 to 85 degrees Fahrenheit); for an overnight sponge ordinary room temperature (65 to 75 degrees Fahrenheit) is warm enough. When the sponge is sufficiently light add the rye flour and the rest of the ingredients. The dough should be about as stiff as for wheat bread. When it has reached about one and three-fourths its original bulk it is molded into long loaves with pointed ends for the last rising. When they have about doubled in bulk they are ready to be baked.

In order to make the crust crisp, bake in shallow pans with a thin layer of corn meal on the bottom instead of grease to prevent sticking. The temperature of the oven should be about 380 degrees Fahrenheit.

Simple Rules to Follow to Prolong Life of Shoe

The nation's shoe bill is one of the items in the high cost of living with which the bureau of chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture has concerned itself for a number of years. In that time it has found out some interesting facts about the number of shoes worn by the average person. Some simple rules for prolonging the life of a pair of shoes have been formulated as a result of the studies and investigations. It has been found, for instance, that the nation's shoe bill could be reduced by more than $200,000,000 annually if each of us wore out but 2½ pairs of shoes instead of the customary 3 pairs each year. This could be done easily, says the department, if we would take better care of our shoes. Especially at this time of year when shoes are apt to get wet, it is very important that they not be placed against a hot stove, radiator or other kind of heater. Wet leather is easily ruined when dried over an intense heat. A few simple rules to follow which are very much worth while, according to statistical records of wear, might be given here: "Have shoes carefully fitted; well-fitting shoes not only look better, they wear better and are more comfortable. Have two pairs and alternate them—they last longer when used alternately. Keep them clean and well brushed; a dressing of oil, well rubbed in prolongs the wear of the leather. Canvas shoes should be cleaned on shoe trees to prevent shrinking. Wet shoes should be dried slowly while on shoe trees, or stuffed with paper to give them shape. Protect shoes with rubbers in wet weather. Do not wear run-down heels; they will spoil the shape of the whole shoe. Have rips and torn places mended at once."

Which Way Does a Screw or Nut Turn to Loosen?

In making plumbing repairs at home it is often necessary to tighten or to loosen a screw or nut, and the householder is sometimes uncertain in which direction it should be turned. The United States Department of Agriculture says that when screwing or tightening an ordinary right-hand screw, nut, or bolt, one should first think of the head of the part to be turned as being the face of a clock and the screwdriver or wrench as being the shaft which turns the clock hands, and then rotate the tool from left to right or in the same direction the clock hands move. Conversely, to unscrew or loosen, rotate the tool from right to left or in the direction opposite to clockwise. Small, brass screws and stems are easily twisted off and rendered useless, especially if a large tool is used to turn them. Undue strain should be avoided, as it may result in the part or parts being broken at an unfortunate time.

Scientist Working to Find Weight of Earth

An American scientist, seeking to weigh the earth as accurately as possible, has set up apparatus in a cell about thirty-five feet underground and has been at work at odd times for nearly a year. It probably will be many weeks before he completes his work. For his apparatus, he has an instrument resembling a small pile driver with many odd-appearing appurtenances. In a general way he has set up a miniature system representing the earth, and is attempting to determine the force of attraction between this system and the earth. By the law of proportion he will decide how much the earth weighs. Just how difficult the problem is, is demonstrated by the statement that to determine the force of attraction between a mass of steel weighing 140 pounds and a ball of gold weighing an ounce and a half it is necessary to compute in millionths of a grain.

Odd Material for Check

A peculiar check that was cashed by a Kansas bank in 1908 has been unearthed during the cleaning out of a vault. While C. F. Sangster of Lyons, Kan., was busy overseeing the building of his home he picked up a block of soft pine an inch thick, seven inches long and three inches wide and proceeded to write a check on the Lyons National bank. The check was afterward cashed by Sam Temple, who, indorsing it, took it to the bank, where it was deposited and stamped "Paid."

Historic Rocking Chair

The old rocking chair in which Rev. Samuel Francis Smith sat when he wrote the hymn "America" has been acquired by the Phillips Andover academy. Smith was a student at the Andover Theological seminary, then a part of the academy, when, in 1832, he composed the patriotic song. He is said to have written the words in half an hour. The chair, long in possession of his descendants, once was carried to California, but has returned to stay.

Scarecrows Passing Out

Scarecrows, which at one time could be seen on almost every farm along the roadside in England, and on many agricultural places in the United States, are rapidly passing out of use. Also, it is the rarest of sights to find a live "scarecrow" usually in the shape of a boy, hired to sit on the fence of a newly planted field, and make queer noises to keep crows away. The reason is that English farmers evidently do not any longer consider the crow an unmitigated enemy or foe of crops, but rather hold it a friend.

The real cause of bad breath

"You cannot 'cover up' unpleasant breath for any length of time. The only way to rid yourself permanently of it is by removing the cause.

"Sometimes poor teeth are responsible. But the commonest cause of a coated tongue and offensive breath is constipation. You may not realize that your intestines are slow in eliminating waste matter, or that your breath is objectionable. But others will notice it.

"Get rid of constipation, and your breath will become fresh and sweet. Even more important, you will notice an immediate improvement in your health and spirits."

Nujol relieves constipation in Nature's own way

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle, and so natural in its action.

Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today. Remove the cause of bad breath and begin to enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when elimination is normal and regular.

DEMISE OF EX-MAYOR

LOUIS J. WILDE

Funeral services for Louis J. Wilde, twice mayor of San Diego, were held in Los Angeles yesterday afternoon, followed by cremation.

Ex-mayor Wilde, who was 62 years of age, died Sunday following an operation the previous day at the Osteopathic hospital. He leaves a widow, living at the family's Los Angeles home, and four children.

During the two terms Mr. Wilde served as mayor, San Diego witnessed its liveliest political period. Mr. Wilde was the incumbent during the World War and in his race for a second term directed his campaign from a sick bed.

Mr. Wilde came to San Diego, where he had large interests and where he spent much of his time, in 1900 from St. Paul. He built the U. S. Grant hotel and the Pickwick theatre and organized the American National bank of San Diego, and the United States National bank. He also built a fine residence on upper Broadway, which thoroughfare he officially had renamed from D street.

DEMISE OF MANAGER

SCOTT A. PALMER

Following a brief illness of pneumonia, Scott A. Palmer, the well known manager of the Savoy theatre, and one of the leading theatrical men on the Pacific coast, died last Tuesday at Mercy hospital in San Diego. Mr. Palmer had only reached his forty-eighth year of age, and besides his theatrical activities, he had been intensely interested in the advance of radio and was appointed chairman of the municipal radio committee recently.

EXTRA LIFE GUARD

PROTECTION FOR BEACH

Members of the city council are considering the employment of another life guard for Mission Beach. Consideration of the appointment followed the ruling of the city attorney that the bath house management cannot be compelled to pay for the guard and a statement from the bath house management that several guards have been employed, but that the management feels that the city should do its share in protecting the lives of bathers.

MUIR AVENUE BEING GREATLY IMPROVED

Editor The Beach News:

Work on Muir avenue is progressing rapidly. The city crew has put in the six-inch water mains and five thousand feet of copper laterals. Mr. Daley has a contract to grade, put in curb and sidewalk and pave the full width of the street. He is making good progress with the grading. The great eucalyptus trees had to be sacrificed to get room to put in the curbs and sidewalks, and they are all out, except four, which are left as souvenirs of a past age. The council has ordered that the new street shall be treed with acacias and no other sorts. The residents plan to make Muir avenue the finest street in Ocean Beach. It will be up to them to keep it so. ZENAS.

A DRAMATIC EPIC

to be the embodiment. All these vanish into thin air at the magician's bidding. Their commander and Prospero's chief aid is quaint Ariel. Prospero has saved her from a piteous plight and she serves him loyally throughout the play, thus earning her freedom when Prospero departs.

Between the sub-human and the human world stands Caliban, the deformed slave, one of the most marvelous products of Shakespeare's creative imagination. For Caliban, of the earth earthy, yet leads on his own plane a rich inner life. He stands in horror of creatures below him, of bats, adders, spiders, of "apes with foreheads villanous low." He is enraptured when he describes the beauties of the island. He has aspiration, dreams of higher things to come to him, and though fiercely resenting Prospero's sternness, is ever ready to worship him whom he would destroy.

As for the human characters of the play, there is first of all jolly Stephano, who was washed ashore on a butt of sack and proceeded to enjoy life to the full. He and his friend Trinculo the jester, stagger through the play, none the worse for the many strange adventures they go through on the enchanted isle.

Of the royal conspirators, "some are worse than devils," Prospero exclaims. Sebastian, brother to the king of Naples, is ready to murder his brother in cold blood, when the opportunity seems his; Antonio, Prospero's brother, who has usurped the dukedom of Milan, is little better. Alonso, king of Naples, another enemy of Prospero's, who years before conspired against him, is to be humbled profoundly before leaving the island.

Standing apart from the three conspirators is honest old Gonzalo, a counselor, "whose honor cannot be measured or confined," who once saved Prospero and Miranda from lingering death, and now that King Alonso has lost everything, he refuses to leave his master.

And finally the higher group of three—Ferdinand, son to the King of Naples, a much deeper nature than his father; Miranda, Prospero's compassionate daughter, and towering above them all, Prospero, wise and human magician. Truly there is epic grandeur in this play of magic and wisdom.

All its possibilities were brought out in epic style by Katherine Tingley and her students last Friday and Saturday. It was a production that New York or London could not have surpassed—and it was staged right here on our own Point Loma, by Point Loma students, under the direction of the leader of a world-wide movement, who has chosen Point Loma as her international headquarters. Truly, these facts are fraught with deep significance for the artistic future of this community.
